All are welcome!

Dear all,

In July 2012 I lost my beautiful Mum (Susan Randle-Bissell) to Pancreatic Cancer. She fought this terrible disease with incredible strength and the utmost dignity. Pancreatic Cancer is one of the toughest cancers to fight and most people who are diagnosed live between 4 – 6 months. Pancreatic Cancer UK do amazing work and have recently secured a new drug called Abraxane to now be offered in the UK that extends the lives of sufferers by months. A few more months with my Mum would have meant the absolute world to me. In 2015 I cycled from St Bees to Robin Hood's Bay and raised just under £3000 for Pancreatic Cancer UK, in 2017 I swam 42 miles over the month of November and raised just over £2000. This year I am set to take on another challenge but this time I will be swimming 50 miles. November is Pancreatic Cancer Awareness month. Swimming 50 miles works out at 4034 lengths in total which means swimming around 135+ lengths per day. I'm training hard at the moment and all is going well apart from my hair which used to be auburn and is now going blonde due to being bleached by the chlorine!
