

Reading Passport!

Each half term you'll get a fresh reading passport to try and fill as much as you can! You can earn stamps by reading at home and showing your teacher your reading record, putting in lots of effort when reading to an adult in school or with your phonics and just by being a book ambassador (loving and caring for books and being a true book worm!).

At the end of the half term, your teacher will look at everyone's reading stamps and decide what prize you're going to get: it could be a new book, a book mark, a reading certificate, a sticker or something else!
